Calculators

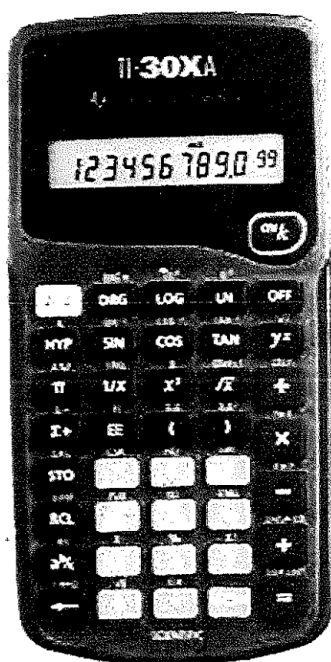

Calculators can be a very beneficial tool for secondary mathematics but if not used properly it can be detrimental to a student's success.

Calculators are to be used to do long division, long multiplication, radicals (or square roots), and exponents. Calculators are not to be used to do one digit calculations like $12 - 6 = 6$! Calculators are not to be used to do signs!

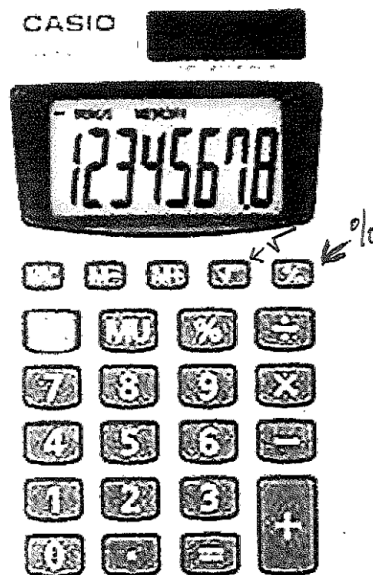

Scientific calculators are only to be used for secondary students. Seventh and eighth grade students should only use a 6 function calculator.

Students who do not follow these guidelines during seventh and eighth grades are setting themselves up for difficulty in Geometry and Algebra because they will not have trained their mind to do calculations properly and the longer problems and proofs will be overwhelming to them.
